² It appears that Leonard Ekman also collected specimens in Las Pozas (in “Río Medio”, collection number 12731, unknown date) during his expeditions to Cuba between 1914 and 1924 (Berazain Iturralde & Rankin Rodríguez, 2023). The specimen was housed in B (Burret, 1929), but was destroyed during the Second War World.

³ Label of the specimen does not indicate its provenance; however, Howard (1988) has details of this collection.

⁴ There are two specimens for this collection.

⁵ Label of the specimen does not indicate its provenance; however, from the species protologue we have inferred that the material come from plants cultivated in a coffee plantation located approximately 22 km north of the village of San Cristobal (Hoyt, 1894).

⁶ The Sancti Spíritus Botanic Garden Herbarium is not listed in Index Herbariorum.
